Speaker: Susan Shelley, VP Communications

Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association

Columnist and Editorial Writer for the Southern California News Group

Topic: How the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association is Saving California from Tax Hikes and Train Wrecks!

Susan Shelley is Vice President of Communications for the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association, the most influential taxpayer advocacy group in California. She is also a columnist and editorial writer for the Southern California News Group, eleven daily papers including the Orange County Register and Los Angeles Daily News. Susan is a frequent guest on Southern California radio, TV news, interview shows, and she is the co-host of the Howard Jarvis Podcast for KABC.

Susan began her career in television, was Associate Producer of “Jeopardy!” before going on to become a full-time writer. She first became active in politics in 2010 when she volunteered for a West San Fernando Valley Congressional Candidate. That led her to become a candidate herself, and she demonstrated, by nearly winning a special election where Democrats outnumber Republicans by 2-1, that good ideas cross party lines and draw support from all voters.

Join us for a highly informative and entertaining look at California’s needlessly self-destructive policies and Sacramento’s latest sneaky plans to raise your taxes. Knowledge is power, but only if you find out early enough! Mary Grove, 1st VP, Programs

Presidents' Report

It seems like there is so much bad news out there right now. Joe Biden is reversing all the great things President Trump accomplished — a secure border wall, lower taxes, reduced regulation, energy independence, lower drug prices... the list goes on and on. It is difficult to image how he and his compadres think these objectives are in any way beneficial to America as we know and love it. They are not. We are all frustrated and, frankly, disgusted by the moves of the Biden-Harris (Harris-Biden?) administration. The good news is that many people, not just informed and loyal Republicans, are not liking what they see, and there is an “awakening” happening among a broader group of Americans. It is slow to happen but it is there.

The very good news is that many states are strengthening their election laws. The many hearings held by Trump’s representatives with state legislatures following the election exposed the chicanery of the left. State legislatures listened and are now voting in tighter laws, requiring voter Identification, for example, and ensuring that non-legislative government officials, i.e., attorneys general, governors, etc., will not be able to arbitrarily create new “laws” at will going forward, violating their own state constitutions they vowed to uphold.

Many states, not only swing states, are now mandating forensic audits of their election results. The voluminous evidence of voter fraud and manipulation of the voting machines, all of which is disingenuously being reported as “debunked” by the mainstream news, gives great hope that these audits will unearth the corruption and, most importantly, the true vote counts in our last election. By the time this gets published, many of these will be well underway. Fingers crossed that voter integrity will prevail!

Caring for America: A MRWF project that is active this year and last is our Cards for Cops program, where we deliver over 150 “thank you” cards and bakery gift certificates to all the Marin police and sheriffs’ offices.

We are doing this now so get in on the Action. Write your ‘thank you’ cards and give them to Jane Maushardt.

Patriots' Day – April 19th

Patriots' Day is not a federal holiday and is officially celebrated in just five states. That’s a shame as it’s a waning opportunity to promote and celebrate that which is good about America. It commemorates the Battles of Lexington and Concord that kicked off the colonists’ fight for independence from Great Britain.

Most remember those events from the Longfellow poem, “Paul Revere’s Ride,” which was written 40 years after Revere died. Yet, Revere himself actually memorialized April 18-19, 1775, in a letter he wrote just several years after the battles. Revere’s letter and this analysis appear online from Sundance at The Last Refuge April 19, 2021:

“To me everything about the heart of Revere, which you can identify within his own writing, is what defines an American ‘patriot.’ There is no grand prose, there is no outlook of being a person of historical significance; there is just a simple recollection of his involvement, an ordinary man in extraordinary times.”

And thank you to the 10 Members who wrote 100 notes for us to enclose in the boxes as little messages from home. Those Troopers will be happy!

May 28th, Friday evening – This is our next scheduled Satellite Club event. Now we all know that we are daily shedding the government's overreach from our psyches and our actions. This event will be at a member's home so put it on your calendar. It will be a surprise.

Thank you to the Erbels for hosting us April 28th at their local facility's community room.

Voter Registration May Volunteers

Our next Voter Registration effort will be in May 2021 after things settle down. This month get in to 'Action'. Here are two assignments that MRWF needs to be active in:

- 1) Volunteer with 4 other MRWF's to walk one precinct – hang Republican door hangers, talk to No Party Preference residents. This is a test to see if we can move some of these voters in to the Republican column in spring 2021.
- 2) Contact me to get on my list of volunteers for May. My email is acfenstermaker@comcast.net.

Legislative Report - California

By CFRW Legislative Analyst Committee

Date: 4/22/2021

GOOD NEWS! SB 663, the bill to allow the personal information of anyone who signs a recall petition to be made available to others including the recall target has been withdrawn. It may come back next year, but for now, it's DEAD!!!

EMERGENCY POWERS

SB 397 - Essential services: religious services – This bill, the Religion is Essential Act, would, during a state of emergency or local emergency, require the Governor or the local government to deem religious services to be an essential service and to be necessary and vital to the health and welfare of the public. The bill would prohibit the state and local government from taking discriminatory action against a religious organization, as those terms are defined, and would require the state and local government to permit a religious organization to continue operating and engaging in religious services during a state of emergency to the same or greater extent than other organizations or businesses permitted to operate. STATUS 4/14/21: Failed passage in committee, but granted reconsideration!

CIVIL RIGHTS

SB 238 – Discrimination: Political Affiliation, Political Relief – This bill broadens the Unruh Civil Rights Act to extend the protections to persons regardless of political belief or affiliation. The bill specifies that these provisions are declarative of existing law. Would add political affiliation as a protected characteristic in connection with employment and housing. This bill is in response to persons being stigmatized or terminated because of their political beliefs.

TAXES

AB 1223 – Firearms and ammunition: excise tax. This bill would, until January 1, 2028, impose an excise tax on a retailer in the amount of \$25 per firearm on the sale in this state of a handgun or semiautomatic rifle or shotgun sold as new, as provided, and an excise tax on a retailer in the amount of xx% of the gross receipts from any sale of ammunition. The tax would be collected by the state pursuant to the Fee Collection Procedures Law. This bill would include a change in state statute that would result in a taxpayer paying a higher tax within the meaning of Section 3 of Article XIII A of the California Constitution, and thus would require for passage the approval of $\frac{2}{3}$ of the membership of each house of the Legislature. Status: Hearing April 26th.

INFRASTRUCTURE

SB 32 – Energy: general plan: building decarbonization requirements. Existing law requires the State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission to assess the potential for the state to reduce greenhouse gases from the state's residential and commercial building stock by at least 40 percent below 1990 levels by January 1, 2030. Because municipalities and counties do not have a role in regulating utility resource plans, SB 32 would require local government to mandate policies in their general plans, climate action, or a greenhouse gas emission plan, that would prevent or reduced natural gas in new homes and commercial buildings beginning January 1, 2023. This policy would be another case of Sacramento further eroding local control. On an energy-equivalent basis, natural gas rates are 67% less than electricity. Forced building requiring electrification would have grave effects on California's overall economics.

California Government – Redistricting

By CFRW Legislative Analyst Committee

Date: 4/22/2021 Special Report

UPDATE ON CALIFORNIA REDISTRICTING:

WHY IT MATTERS AND HOW YOU CAN PARTICIPATE!

Redistricting is the once-every-decade practice across the United States of redrawing state and federal voting boundaries, with the goal being equal distribution of voters, based on the most current census information. The results impact who represents local voters in the U.S. House of Representatives, the State Board of Equalization (tax and fee districts), and the state Senate and Assembly, based on changes in population and demographics, among other things. In California, the census data is also used to redraw boundaries for county supervisor districts, as well as cities, school districts and other agencies that elect representatives by geographical districts. The Federal Voting Rights Act also requires that in areas with a high population of minority voters, the lines must be drawn to keep enough of each minority group in a district to give them a chance of electing one of their own to represent them, while at the same time not “packing” a district artificially.

In the past, redistricting in most of the U.S. was handled by state legislators. This led to accusations of “gerrymandering”-drawing district lines to favor a particular political party. In 2008, California voters passed the Voters First Act, which resulted in the formation of the California Citizens Redistricting Commission (CCRC). These are regular citizens from around the state, and they have the final say in how the district lines will be drawn. Their decisions are made using census data, federal and state laws and guidelines, and input from the public. Their meetings are open to the public and they are required to take public input. They are not allowed to use voter registration information or any partisan data to draw lines, and the legislators are not allowed to communicate directly with commissioners about redistricting. In fact, contact from politicians is only allowed during public meetings. For more information on the California Citizens Redistricting Commission, and the Voters First Act, Click HERE.

In determining what the census information shows and how best to achieve accurate and fair redrawing of boundaries, the CCRC must also consider “Communities of Interest”, among other factors. They must, as much as possible, keep those communities together. Splitting these types of communities up is seen as a negative, minimizing their voices. A community of interest is, as broadly defined by Calif. law “a contiguous population which shares common social and economic interests that should be included within a single district for purposes of its effective and fair representation.” Official examples are a little vague because officials want to leave it open to interpretation, and open for them to get the people to tell them how they think their community fits that definition and where they are. An example, however, might be something like a historic community, or a mountain community-places where people share a common lifestyle and/ or geographic or environmental concerns. It could also be a minority group. By law, these communities cannot be based on political parties, or who their representatives currently are. Due to the pandemic, final results of the California Redistricting Commission may not be available until mid-December of this year, and possibly not until February 2022.

GET INVOLVED!!! The good news about the delay is that it gives all of us more time to contribute our input to this process. A new tool, <https://drawmycacommunity.org> allows anyone interested to submit information on what they think their ideal political community is and why the state should consider their ideas. Residents are not limited to the number of submissions, because one person could belong to more than one community of interest. You can also attend virtual commission meetings and offer comments verbally or in writing. You know those who want to promote ideas beneficial to Democrat gerrymandering will take active participation. Let’s not just sit idly by and let that happen. Contribute to the process!
